

Chapter 4: Right-of-Way

At times, a driver must yield to others. There are certain rules to help determine who has the right-of-way; however, if the other driver doesn't follow these rules, give him/her the right-of-way. Remember, in every situation, right-of-way is something given, not taken. All drivers should know and understand the laws that determine who has the right-of-way.

Table 14: Penalties for Failure to Yield Right-of-Way

Offense	Penalty
Driver commits any traffic offense of which failure to yield the right-of-way to another vehicle is an element and causes bodily injury to another.	A fine of $500 to $2,000.
Driver causes serious bodily injury to another.	A fine of $1,000 to $4,000.

Right-of-Way at Intersections

Intersections Controlled by Signs and Signals
When signs and signals control traffic at an intersection, you must obey them. Know the meaning of each sign and signal. See Chapter 5 for more information.

Single or Two-Lane Road Intersecting a Multi-Lane Road
If you are driving on a single or two lane road that intersects with a divided road or road with three (3) or more lanes, you must yield the right-of-way to vehicles traveling on the divided or three (3) or more lane road.

Unpaved Road Intersecting a Paved Road
If you are driving on an unpaved road that intersects with a paved road, you must yield the right-of-way to vehicles traveling on the paved road.

Intersections Not Controlled by Signs, Signals, Multi-Lanes, or Pavement
When approaching this type of intersection, yield the right-of-way to any vehicle that has entered or is approaching the intersection on your right. If the road to your right is clear or if approaching vehicles are far enough from the intersection to make your crossing safe, you may proceed. Since there are not any traffic-controls at this intersection, make sure there are no approaching vehicles from the left. You may legally have the right-of-way but be sure the other driver yields to you before you proceed.

Turning Left
When turning left, always yield the right-of-way to any vehicle coming straight through from the other direction.

Private Roads and Driveways
When entering or crossing a road, street, or highway from a private road, alley, building, or driveway, you must stop prior to the sidewalk and yield the right-of-way to all approaching vehicles and pedestrians.

T-Intersection
When approaching an intersection of a through street traveling from a street that ends at the intersection, you must stop and yield the right-of-way to vehicles on the through street.
