CANNABIS AND DRIVING

Recreational use of marijuana, THC, and other cannabis products (edibles, patches, vapes, tinctures, and topicals) is legal for those 21 years or over, but driving after consuming any cannabis is illegal for all ages.

There is no safe amount of cannabis for driving.

Research shows that cannabis can impair drivers in a variety of ways:

- Reduced attention, reaction time, and coordination
- Decreased car handling
- Slower reaction times
- Inability to judge distances
- Increased drowsiness
- Loss of motor coordination
- Impaired mental and physical functions
