

A dashed white line between lanes of traffic means you can cross it to change lanes if it is safe.

A solid white line means you should stay in your lane unless a special situation requires you to change lanes.

Double solid white lines are a barrier between lanes. It's illegal to cross double white lines.

A dashed yellow line shows the center of a two-way, two-lane road. If it's safe, you may use the oncoming lane to pass another vehicle.

A solid yellow line can indicate the edge of the road or a no-passing zone. Do not cross a solid yellow line to pass another vehicle.

Double solid yellow centerlines show the middle of a two-way road. You are not allowed to pass, in either direction, on roads with double yellow lines.
